

Football Bingo Rules

1. Each bingo game lasts for only 1 football game
2. Cards are randomly generated and distributed to everyone who wants to play. Each card has a free space and 24 different outcomes that could happen in a game.
3. Whoever gets 5 in a row first wins the first bingo
4. Squares get marked based on the time on the game clock, when the play happened during the football game
5. Tiebreaker: Unless otherwise noted by the pool admin, there is no official tiebreaker, just like regular bingo. If two bingos happen at the same time, both people are winners.
6. Corrections: If a square is mistakenly marked due to bad data, it could get corrected during the game. This is not uncommon with real time data about specific happenings with each football game - although our data provider is usually very quick to correct. Always verify the your bingo leaderboard after the game is completed.
7. Optional Game 2: Most Squares. If your pool admin decides to include an optional secondary game with your bingo card, whoever has the most squares marked at the end of the game wins that secondary game. Kind of like a coverall ... but modified a bit for football games where you can't guarantee that all the squares will be called.
